

NONSENSE POEMS

HELP DESK

Nonsense poems swap ordinary words for words you find interesting, funny or that sound good. You can even swap ordinary words for made up words!

How to write a nonsense poem:

- First, write down a few sentences about something very ordinary.
(maybe making a cup of tea, or travelling to school)
- Next, think of some random words you find funny, interesting or sound nice.
(if you fancy a challenge you can also make up your own words)
- Now, swap some of the ordinary words from your sentences for your interesting words.
- You have a nonsense poem! Now perform it with enthusiasm, actions and expression!

What's the topic?

Read these nonsense poems. Can you guess what the original topic was?

Flick the hippo on
Throw a bubble in the cup
Wait until the hippo has boiled
It's done.
Time to pour in copper
Add an oyster of milk
Stir it alien
And enjoy...

Subject?

I open my ferrets, slowly
Have a big flimsickle
Morning has rubber!
I'm starving...
What should I have for shoelaces?
Ah roses, pancakes!
Steadily, I shimmer down the crystal
When, to my SHOCKLEPOPPLER!
There aren't any pancakes in the radiator

Subject?

Write your own

Get creative! Write your own nonsense poem.

For help:

- Use the method in the 'help' section
- Use the nonsense words and subject pictures below

Super Challenge:

Can you include extra poetic devices such as similes or metaphors in your original sentences?

Remember: Writing poems is about having fun and experimenting with words.
Don't be afraid to make mistakes.

mouse
rectangle shoes tools beard yellow weasel eagle pufferfish
butter
jam